

DR. ROSAMARIA MANCINI

Adjunct Associate Professor

Rosamaria Mancini is a journalist/writer whose work has appeared in The Wall Street Journal and The New York Times. She was a communications specialist at the Vatican, and currently holds a position with Fairtrade International in Bonn. Rosamaria has been an adjunct professor at UMGC Europe since 2017, teaching writing and speech courses.

In the past, Rosamaria has taught communications courses at John Cabot University and the American University of Rome, both in Italy, and the Brussels School of Governance in Belgium. She believes in a student-centered teaching approach where students engage in authentic complex thinking and problem-solving.

A native New Yorker, she lives in the tri-border area between Germany, Netherlands, and Belgium with her husband and two children. She recently earned her PhD in Creative Writing from Swansea University. Her first book, SOS Podcasts, was published by Cambria Books, 1 August 2024.

SUBJECT AREAS

Writing
Speech
Communications

EDUCATION

PhD, Creative Writing, Swansea University
MA, Journalism, New York University
BA, Art History and Media Studies, Hunter College

TEACHING LOCATIONS

Geilenkirchen, Germany

EMAIL

rosamaria.mancini@faculty.umgc.edu