

DR. TONI MCLAUGHLAN

Collegiate Associate Professor

PRONOUNS

she, her, hers

SUBJECT AREAS

Library Skills and Information Literacy
Speech Communication
Writing

EDUCATION

PhD, Higher Education, Lancaster University, UK
MA, Linguistics; University of Delaware, USA
MS Ed, School Psychology; University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, USA

BA, English Language and Linguistics /
Psychology; University of Wisconsin-Madison,
USA

TEACHING LOCATIONS

Al Dhafra, United Arab Emirates

EMAIL

toni.mclaughlan@umgc.edu

I am a globally-minded educator who believes in cultivating independent thought through critical and careful engagement with multimedia research sources.

I aim to maintain an interactive and challenging classroom environment that encourages students to apply learning ethically and empathetically to reach clear and high standards.

I believe that student-faculty relationships are at the heart of effective teaching and learning and that such rapport is constructed through integrity, trust, communication, well-planned instruction, and an individual knowledge of students as whole persons with full lives. My research interests involve internationalization of higher education, intercultural sensitivity and communication, and educational technologies.